

Altwell Tech. Inc.

Since established in 1978, Altwell Tech has been well known as high-tech environmental enterprise both in domestic and international market, which has integrating water treatment technology and high quality production capability. With the recognition of increasing a variety of environmental problems, we have been committed to help people improve their health by providing them with absolute solution to water problem and also promote healthy and comfortable lives of people through the manufacture and the distribution of the high quality Water Purification System.

Having been developed in its own production technology through R&D laboratory which is in possession of advanced technology to manufacture activated carbon block, Altwell Tech Water Purification System became the one of the best world-class products meeting the needs of customers.

Altwell Tech have been putting great efforts into enhancing the lives of humanity as well as the quality of our products while trying to reflect our eco-friendly philosophy on our products. Even though more than 100,000 products of Altwell Tech have been sold all over the world, Altwell Tech is still eager to be challenged so that it will take a further step into new market and potential customers in the world.

Altwell Tech will devote ourselves to achieving our goal which is to create the best water solution through ceaseless innovation of technology.

Altwell Tech. Inc.

Model name: Pulito (AP-1130)

The modern and sophisticated design water purifier makes your kitchen luxury. Five filter stages are combined in one single cartridge offers you the best drinking water.

